beginning was the world, nursed on the warm breast of chaos fast following a night of initial explosion, making light into a face swaddled in warmth and hard publicity. Genetics produced the fullness thereof and a new letters. Our earth took us to heart and mind in the intellectual embrace of a cool companionship.
cosmology emerged as the flight from innocence locked them out of the garden.

Self a blocked off space of time, private allowance, childish hands marking a face organized as science.

DELIGHT was unearthly in the early stages of undress. Knowledge was a hot routine to the primal primitives.

3. Six days or seven a brother or two sisters, not pictured here, were the stars of the nuclear configuration, fractured and split in the familiar pattern and spreading to the cardinal points of the psychic globe, raised in the old testament way, with natural light, harsh, swift judgement, and stories, many many stories told over again against the text to disguise and distract our labor.

4. Grandfather one day from the sea and another in a bucket, tracking sand, one of our own most ancient relations, dense with history, his own and the knowledge of others: so the shape of the headdress, stars and animals to find their way and satisfy the primitive ache of the human imagination.

2. First blow, the hand of god, by blow came skills so that we crept out of our holes armed with the new technology and ready to have it make the world for us.

5. Testing procedures: maternal mode of reason calibrated the instruments with a mother’s touch, measured out as law.

6. Cranking the machine, generating life forms, tears suspended: a miracle: we held the tricky devils in our hands until they fled seduced by the wind into believing they were moisture; only traces remained, bitter salt which we licked from the wounds of time.

18. Disciples without principles, thank god, sat throughout, side by side their heads bobbing up and down on the waves of conversation they each felt just like the brother they never had.
There was talk of a barbeque and there were strenuous objections in some -- hind -- quarters.

Writing returned from a trip and mapped by a horse and lost while Alex climbed over the mountains and set his seal on the wide plains he surveyed with his gaze. There were still no trains.

This must be the Renaissance: we looked at the stars and I saw my face. I'm a pig, I cried. My dear, he said, the whole of the animal kingdom has passed this way. I looked down and saw by the trail of footsteps that it was true. I looked again and the stars were marching off to have their baths and we were all stuck on the ground without them.
